CITY INTELLIGENCE, THE FLAMES.

The Disastrous Conflagration Yesterday Afternoon.

The tarrible fire yesterday afterneon in the square bounded by Girard avenue, Poplar street, Marshall and Seventh, which spread through almost the entire block of dwellings, carrying terror and destruction to dozens of homes, has been given to the public, with almost all its details by the morning paper. This calculity details, by the morning papers. This calamity has no parallel in our local history for this year. It is a matter of impossibility to arrive at the exact loss entailed by such a disastrous conflagration, and we are compelled to be satisfied with a rough estimate of the sufferers. There are some things about this dreadful event that want explanation. Why was it that, when alarm-boxes were in the immediate vicinity of the scene of the fire, a policeman travelled to the Twelfth District Station-house, at Tenta and Thompson streets, to strike the alarm, thus permitting the flames to gain an uncontrollable headway? and how was it that cur new Paid Fire Department was so dilatory in getting upon the ground and into active operation? We expect something better of it.

So far as we are able to ascertain, the losses

The Destructive Conflagration This Morning.

The Fire Department has had plenty to do within the past twenty-four hours. First came the terribly destructive fire on Marshall street, and then followed, at twenty minutes past one this morning, a fire at the buildings Nos. 527 and 529 Commerce street, and which destroyed property to the extent of not less than $70,000. The buildings Nos. 527 and 529 are five storied brick structures. They were filled with printing not long after the fire started that the whole buildings were enveloped in flames. Messrs. Spangler & Davis, steam-power printers, occupy the first floor of No. 529, and Percival Collins, dealer in rags and paper-bags, the first floor of No. 527 Commerce street. As the fire originated in the upper stories, neither of these portions were touched by the flames, but were thoroughly inundated with water. The loss of Mr. Collins may be put down at a rough estimate at $10,000, upon which there is ample insurance. Messrs. Spangler & Davis also occupied the second and fourth floors of Nos. 527 and 529. Their place was fully stocked with materials and presses. The loss they sustain equals their insurance, which is as follows:-

Fame, of Philadelphia.....

Mr. John H. Smith, manufacturer of yarns and zephyrs, occupies the third floor. His loss is $4000. Insured $2000 on machinery and $2000 on stock in the Royal.

The fifth floor is used by Mr. George Careless. manufacturer of britannia and silver-plated ware. His place was only partially consumed. His loss will be about $3000. He is insured $3000 in the Spring Garden and $1000 in the Mechanic Companies.

These buildings run back about some one hundred feet to the rear of two four-story storehouses facing at Nos. 19 and 21 North Sixth street. The latter of these properties, No. 21, is occupied on the first floor by Horatio G. Kern, surgical and dental instrument maker, and who also is the owner of the two buildings on Commerce street, and also of the one occu-pled by himself and the structure No. 19, occupied by Messrs. E. K. Tryon, Jr., & Co., gunsmiths Kern's place was washed with water. Mr. Kern sustains a loss of $3000 on his buildings on Sixth street. On the Commerce street buildings he had an insurance of $2000, and loses about $6000 on machinery and damage to the building. The Sixth street buildings were each insured for $3000 in the Fire Association. The second floor of No. 21 is occupied by Messrs. W. S. Fortescue & Co., book publishers. They were drenched with water. Loss small Insured in the Ætna Insurance Company.

William B. Coverdale, shoe dealer, occupies the third and fourth floors. Slightly damaged by fire, and loses about $800 from water. In-

The structure No. 19 was entirely occupied by Messrs. E. K. Tryon, Jr., & Co., gunsmith, fishing tackle, etc. The rear of the fourth story was slightly injured by the fire, but the loss is principally by water, the place having been completely inundated. The stock was large and valuable, and the firm estimate their loss at $20,000. They have the following insurances:— Pennsylvania. $15,000
Delaware Mutual 10,000 Pire Association.

William Southwood, dealer in aquariums and flowers, at No. 17, lost about $50 from the destruction of an awning and the smashing of some glass when the western wall of the Commerce street building fell. The establishment of Dr. Schenck was not in the slightest damaged. Assistant Fire Marshal Randall labored most assiduously at these fires, and is now busily investigating the subject of their origin.

THE SLATS .- Last night the leading lights of the Democracy met at the club house. No. 1014
Walnut street, and arranged the list of local Democratic candidates as follows:—
For Mayor—John Robbins.

For District Attorney-Furman Sheppard. For City Treasurer—8. Gross Fry. For City Controller—William Harbison. For City Commissioner—General Ballier. For City Solicitor—Thomas J. Barger.

For Coroner-Dr. Roth. THIEF AT THE FIRE .- Charles Reese, during the fire on Commerce street this morning, attempted to steal some articles from the store of Messrs. E. K. Tryon, Jr., & Co., No. 19 North Sixth street. Officer Mooney, of the Fourth district, arrested him, and thelprisoner will be at the Central hearings this afternoon.

AN AMATEUR "ROMEO."

High Jinks on the Tomb of the Capulets -A Rare Entertainment at the Academy of Music -Hamlet's "Robustious Periwig-pated Fellow" Outdone for Once-Coppers and Cabbages from an Enthusinstie Audience.

"O Romeo, Romeo! wherefore art thou Romeo?" About six weeks ago there appeared in the advertising columns of a merning contemporary the following unique paragraph, credited to the Medical Repository, a new authority in matters

"Having heard that John S. Estlin intends to adont the stage as a profession, we feel called upon to say that we believe this man to possess the most wonderful tragic genius in the world. He appears to oe a perfect mester of every passion of the human soul, and can exhibit at will the most gentle feelings in the sweetest utterance, or give vent by one loud outburst of furious passion to all the stermy feelings of the human heart. We speak from our own knowledge of the man, having heard him eurselves."

Soon after appeared the announcement that Mr. Estlin would appear at the Academy of Music is "shakespeare's sublime tragedy of Romeo and Juliet," with a number of well-known amateurs in the cast. Having once divulged his plans to the public, our "most wonderful tragic genius" followed it up by telling the people through frequent advertisements who and what this man Shakespeare was, with choice extracts from his plays, as a foretaste of the grand treat in store. Last evening "the most wonderful tragic genius" made his debut, and the Academy of Music was filled to overflowing. Nature abhers a vacuum, and the atmosphere on the occasion of Mr. Estlin's "benefit and first appearance," penetrated every nook and corner of the building and filled the spacious audi-torium as full as it was ever filled (with air) Indeed, the only displacement sustained by the air we breathe was caused by the presence of about two hundred people, who were scattered all ever the house. The handbills and advertisements had promised the audience the "oversure and other choice selections from the opera of Romeo and Juliet," by "a select orchestra." The orchestra, however, was non inventus, and Shakespeare's "sublime tragedy" was rendered without any dilutions by the strains of Gounod or Bellini. When the "tragic genius" made his entree, he was greeted with a hearty round of applause, which, before the close of the first act, became so continuous that "the genius" was slightly incommoded. He persevered, nevertheless, and at the close of the act, was called before the curtain by an audience whose enthu-siasm made full amends for its meagreness, and who had by that time come to see that they were enjoying about the rarest tragic treat that had ever been given in the Academy. During the progress of the second act, the audience was even more uproarious than during the first, the earnest plaudits being mingled with loud cries of "hi! hi!" "go it, old boy!" and the like. At the close of the act, "the tragic genius" was again called before the curtain, and embraced the opportunity to apologize for the non-appearance of the promised band. But his first syllables were drowned by stentonian cries of "louder!" and as fast as "the genius" lifted up his voice, the audience did likewise, until the climax was capped by a cry of "louder, old puddin' head!"

"Alas, poor Romes, he is already dead!" exclaims "Mercutio" in one of the earlier scenes, and in sooth such was fairly his condition by the time he should have made his entrance in the first scene of act third, to encounter the taunts of "Tybalt." There was a delay of full five minutes before "Romeo" appeared, after

"Tybalt" had exclaimed: —
"Here comes my man." "Where'n the d-1 is your man?" roared a small boy in the third tier. "Romeo, where art thou?" drawled out a venerable octogenarian opposite, who had a copy of the play in his hand, and was assiduously following "the tragic genius" through his part

"Here he comes," finally exclaimed one of the anxious waiters, as "the genius" rushed upon the stage from the wrong direction, a perfect picture of despair.

The audience became ecstatic at this point, and roared like mad. The interest deepened as the play progressed, and when the scene in "Juliet's" chamber came on, another climax chamber came on, another climax was reached. Just as "the genius" was pouring out his heart to his mock love, an enthusiastic youth in the family circle hurled a handful of coppers at the enamored "Romeo." This slightly disconcerted him, as did likewise a bundle of dry leaves which quickly fellowed it. But the indignity was not consummated until, as genius" was about stretching his two hands towards heaven, he was greeted by an enormous cabbage, which fell at his feet and smote him on the toes. Then the thing became monotonous. and "Romeo" turned upon his persecutors. Wheeling up to the footlights, he exclaimed

"Ladies and gentlemen, I'm a sick man!" "So you are!" came from one of his auditors. "I'm not fit to be here," he continued. "That's so!" was the ready response.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I have been studying this part so hard that I haven't had time to eat," put in "the tragic genius" again. "Go take a drink!" shouted a man in the

And so the fun progressed, until another rare point was reached at the tragic death-scene in the last act. "Ah! ah!" "Oh! oh!" "Easy! easy!" came from all parts of the house, as the unfortunate lovers were letting themselves down, and when they were stiff and stark on the floor, the enthusiastic youth in the family circle who had thrown the handfull of coppers cried out lustily:-"Set 'em up again !"

But they were not to be set up again. They had done their duty nobly, and were in at the death, and that is all that was required. Perhaps the best solution of the unique entertainment that could be given was that made by a sympathetic auditor, who, during one of the waits, mounted the stage and commenced:-"Ladies and gentlemen, I once knew a man in a lunatic asylum—"

"Estlin! Estlin's the man!" cried a dozen voices in chorus. "When," continued the sympathetic auditor, when I asked him what brought him here, he said, 'I had a hobby which I would ride, and as it couldn't throw me, I rode it until I fetched up

"Estlin's the man!" again shouted the audience, and the rest of the speech was lost in the

The Third Annual Exhibition of the National Photographic Association of the United States—The Opening of the Pic-ture Display This Morning—A Fine Exhibition.

The third annual exhibition of the Notional Photographic Association of the United States opered at 10 o'clock this morning in the Horticultural Hall, with the picture display of the finest phetographic works of art from all parts of the world.

The Photographic Association will, in addition to this exhibition, hold various meetings and exhibitions during the week. The display in Horticultural Hall will continue until June 13. and will be open both in the day and evening. An orchestra will be in attendance at the night entertainments and perform select pro-grammes. On Wednesday (to-morrow) after-noon, a public anniversary reception will be held at the Academy of Music, at which time the programme will include music, addresses, and stereopticon displays.

On Wednesday evening a popular lecture on light will be delivered by Professor Henry Morton, Ph.D., before the association, and on Thursday evening another lecture on the same sub ject and by the same lecturer. On Friday evening an exhibition in the stereopticon will be given, in the Academy of Music, of the association's collection of views from all parts of the world, conducted by J. W. Black, of Boston. This collection is said to be fluer than anything which has ever been exhibited.

Delegates are now present in the city from all parts of the United States, to attend the meetings of the association. The number of visitors which this series of exhibitions has brought to the city is quite large, and it is hoped that they will all heartly enjoy their visit. The picture display which opened this moraing will demand a large share of the attention of the visitors. At the hour of writing the arrangements were not quite complete, but even in the unfinished state the exhibition promised to be of the most entertaining, pleasing, and in-structive character. The hall has been divided up into small alcoves or booths, so as to give as much wall room as possible, and a partition runs down the centre of the hall, in which are also displayed numerous fine works of art.

The exhibitors were not yet all fully represented, but a great number had their contributions fully and carefully assorted and arranged Our city photographers were fully represented, as well as those from all parts of the United. States and Europe. Among the Philadelphia delegation were noticed some very fine and large pictures of miscellaneous kinds from Gutekunst; a very large assortment of out-door views and insides of buildings, from R. Newell, many of which were familiar scenes in this neighborbood. The display of Gihon & Thompson occupied an entire alcove, and as large an assortment from Osler hung along a portion of one side wall of the hall. Wamsley & Co. exhibited some ivorytypes of exquisite finish, and Albert Moore contributed various large specimens of perfect pic-tures enlarged by means of the solar camera from small negatives. The American Photographic Relief Printing Company exhibited numerous specimens of photographic mechanical printing by the Woodbury process, which that company is now able to turn out in good style.

F. A. Wenderoth contributed the results of experiments in carbon printing, which showed all the finish of long experience. Germon's department was extensive. The display of mechanical photographs of machinery, etc., was very complete, and showed how far photography is new used to aid the mechanical arts.

Vansyckle & Brother contributed several good specimens of portrait work; and Herman Roett-

ger, manufacturer of photographic lenses, had a most elaborate case filled with the finest pro-ductions of his workshop. F. Reifsnyder showed a large assortment of passe-partouts, and Hale, The tables from Wilson, Heod & Co. were burdened with specimens of every kind of material or substance used in the art, and a similar set of tables were furnished from E. & H. T. Anthony & Co., of New York. New York also sent specimens from W. Kurtz, some of which were very large and fine, especially some cattle views from life, large size, and a view of Broad street, Philadelphia, looking north from Spring Garden; also specimens from Bogardus and N. H. Busey, of New York, and W. S. Pendleton of Brooklyn.

Other fine displays were shown from Leon Van Loo, of Cincinnati, Ohio; A. M. Allen, of Pottsville; Dunniod & Wilson, of Baltimore; Kilburn & Bro., of Littleton, N. H.; C. A. Zimmerman, of St. Paul, Minn.; W. G. Bussell, of Erie, Pa.; F. S. Stuber, of Bethlehem, Pa.; A. Kracaw, of Washington, Iowa; J. H. Boswick, of Bristol, Pa.; D. Lathrop and B. L. H. Dabbs, of Pittsburg; and J. W. Sawyer, of Chicago.

Some colored specimens from D. B. Bedlin, of Philadelphia, were very fine, and the table of of Brooklyn.

Philadelphia, were very five, and the table of photographic materials from Castle, of Cleveland, was elaborate and complete.

The display of foreign photographs was probably the most attractive. The pictures of this department were from Moser, Sr., and Carl Such, of Berlin; from Grasshoff, Uterville, and Brigny, of Leamington. In addition to all these there were any quantity of miscellaneous views, steroscopic and statuary pictures, autotypes, glass positives, and the like. The exhibi-

Annual Report of the Prison Agent-His Mission and How He Accomplishes It. We this morning received the annual report of Prison Agent William J. Mullen, rendered to the Philadelphia Society for Alleviating the Miseries of Public Prisons. He says:-

He has endeavored to make it his constant care to de what he could to assist the authorities in dispensing justice. If the labors of the agent have not accomplished all that could have been desired, in the settlement of over 28,000 cases of persons who have been incarcerated, and have now been liberated by his management, whom he has been instrumental in releasing from the beginning, he takes consolation in a consciousness that he has left nothing undone, intentionally, that it was in his power to do, that would be productive of good results. And if in disposing of these cases by his interference, he has succeeded in meeting the expectations and approval of his fellow-citizens, his highest ambition has been reached, and he will feel happy.

He has been instrumental in releasing from prison 2707 persons; of this number there were 63 children, and 38 insane. All these were court cases, and the most of them were innocent of what they were ac-He has endeavored to make it his constant care

All these were court cases, and the most of them were innocent of what they were accused of, or whose real offenses, upon investigation, were found to be of so trivial a nature as not to justify their further imprisonment. whole number of persons released from The whole number of persons released from prison, through the interference of the agent, during the eighteen years of his agency, has been 28,394, at a saving to the county of $272,499-37. These facts, taken in a pecuniary point of view alone, would seem to make the mission one of importance.

INCITING TO RIOT.—There was an election at Twenty-first and Ellsworth street last night to decide the location of a precinct-house, and James Winters, who was rather the worse for liquor, was continually disturbing it. He got into several wrangles with different parties. He was finally arrested, and Alderman Dallas held him in ball to answer.

ROBBED IN A TAVERN .- Officer Boyle, of the Tenth district, yesterday afternoon arrested one William Wallace, who was charged with stealing $73 from the pocket of a man who was sleeping in a chair in a beer saloon at Frank-ford road and Jefferson street. The accused was placed under $600 ball by Alderman Shoe-

HIGHWAY ROBBERS.

Daring Attempt to Rob a Baltimorean-The Thieves Captured and Quickly Disposed of.

A Baltimorean, named Daniel Finn, on his way from New York, arrived at the depot at Thirty-first and Market streets at about half-past twelve last night. He was met in the depot by two neterious thieves named James Smith and John Burns. These fellows took him over to a tavern opposite and proposed to treat him, which proposi-tion he accepted. They then asked him to take a walk, and he complied. After sauntering around for a while the thieves pretended that they desired to go up Ludlow street, and Mr. Finn accordingly went with them. When they arrived at a lonely spot one of the men seized Mr. Finn, ran him against a fence, and tripped They both fell, and during the scuille the other party busied himself in trying to get at the pocket-book of the Baltimorean, who daring this time was fighting with vigor and screaming "help," "police," etc. Officer McDonald, of the Sixteenth district, heard the cries, and ran up in time to prevent the robbery

The two fellows scampered off, but the policeman arrested both of them by a prompt production of his revolver. Officer Urian coming up, the highway robbers were taken to the station house. Mr. Finn being a powerful man, the thieves did not succeed in getting at his pocket-book. The prosecutor wished to return to his native city, but Lieutenant Leech detained him until this morning. The Lieutenant brought the prisoners in this morning, had them arraigned before the Grand Jury; Mr. Finn testified, a true bill was found, and the scoundrels will be tried this afternoon in the Court of Quarter Sessions.

Many robberies of this kind are perpetrated in the neighborhood of railway depots, and the thieves generally escape justice because the pros-ecutors will not remain in town to appear against

DISORDERLY HOUSE BROKEN UP .- On Chesnut street, above Thirty-fourth, is a house kept by Henry McKeown. For years past it has been the resort of worthless and abandoned characters, both male and female. Yesterday afternoon some half dozen parties were in the establishment, and their riotous conduct and prefanity caused much annoyance to respectable people. A neighbor swore out a warrant before Alderman Lungren, and Lieutenant Leech sent there a squad of officers who entered the place and arrested three or four others, beside Mr. and Mrs. McKeown. The entire party were marched to the alderman's office for a hearing. The magistrate consented to discharge the others but held the husband and wife in $1000 bail NOTORIOUS PICKPOCKET CAGED .- Readers of local news should be familiar by this time with the character of Lewis Jones, alias "Brother Bones," one of the most dexterous pickpockets in Philadelphia. Yesterday afternoon, as the negro parade was passing Eighteenth and Ches-nut streets, Lewis tried to operate upon the pocket of a lady who was standing watching the parade. She screamed, and Lieutenant Fiaherty and Officer Carr ran up in time to discover "Brother Bones" making hasty steps down Chesnut street to Seventeenth. The officers followed, and captured him on Seventeenth street, above Chesnut. Lewis is under $800 bail by Alderman Morrow.

Two Burglaries. - The residence of W Harris Kneass, at Fortieth and Oregon streets was entered last night and robbed of $300 worth of silverware. The windows were found closed this morning, and the front door had been opened from the inside, and these circumstances ead to the belief that the thief had secreted himself in the dwelling.

Two thieves broke into Jones Mansion, East Fairmount Park, this morning. Taey were surprised by Keeper Menes, who fired three shots at them, but they managed under cover of the woods to effect their escape.

OFFICE OF BOILER INSPECTION DEPART-MENT, No. 119 S. FOURTH Street.

At a special meeting of the Committee of Select and Common Councils on Steam Engine and Boiler Inspection, the inspector was instructed to call the attention of Boiler Owners and Users to Section 4 of the Act of Assembly, approved May 17, 1864, which says:—

"If any person shall, on or after the first Monday of July next, maintain or keep in use or operation any stationary steam engine or boiler within the said city of Philadelphia, without having first received a ceruficate that the same has been found to be safe and competent, as is hereinbefore provided, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction in the Court of Quarter Sessions for said county shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding five thousand ($5000) dollars and to undergo imprisonment in the jail of said county, either with or without labor, as the Court may direct, for a term not exceeding two (2) years."

The act approved July 7, 1869, with reference to insured boilers requires the indorsement of this Department, in order to exempt the owners or users from city inspection.

The Manitoba Mutiny. NEW YORK, June 6.—The examination in the case of the scamen of the British bark Manitoba, charged with piracy, was concluded this morning before Commissioner White. The case for the prosecution was summed up by counsel for the British Consul, who contended that the men should be held for extradition. The Commissioner stated that he would certainly hold Thomas and Robert Walsh, Thomas Shea, and James Carr, but concerning the others he had not decided. The case was adjourned to 3 o'clock, when the Commissioner would render his decision.

The President and Mrs. Grant, Miss Grant and Miss Cooke, arrived at the Fifth Avenue Hotel this morning from Long Branch, and leave this P. M. for West Point. Numerous politicians, office seekers and others thronged the hotel, but only a favored few were granted

Another Terrible Mutiny. The ship Europa, from Bremen, reports on June 3:—Saw a brig with a signal of distress. She proved to be the J. L. Bowen, hence for Gibraltar, the crew having mutinied and killed the captain. The chief mate lay on the deck senseless, with his head badly cut. The second mate had an arm broken, and was otherwise badly injured, and two men and one passenger were also badly beaten. Put our mate on board the brig to bring her back to New York.

Public Schools of St. Louis. Sr. Louis, June 6 .- Ira Divail, late Superin tendent of Public Schools, has resigned on account of bad health. Mr. Divall was for more than twenty years Superintendent of Public Schools in this city, and was largely instrumental in bringing them up to the high state of efficiency for which they are famous.

Railway Matters. The Times states that the Missouri Railroad is about to pass into the hands of new owners, with M. K. Jessup at the head. The plan is to bid the railroad off at a sale, to take place in August, under the second mortgage, and thus wipe out the third mortgage; the $8,000,000 of stock and floating debt, which amounts to $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 more.

If the scheme works well, the Illinois, Missouri and Kansas Association will, says the Times, purchase the road with $30,000,000 capital, and paying a dividend upon that sum for $7,000,000 or $8,000,000, or little more than a third of its real value.

New Hampshire Politics. CONCORD, N. H., June 6.—This city never in its political records presented such active scenes as to-day. All the politicians of the State are here engineering for the organization of the Legislature to-morrow. All but 10 of 167 representatives are calculated upon, as the Democratic party strength were present last evening.

The Democrats are claiming the organization of the House by ten majority, in which event the Senate vacancies will not be filled until after the convention for counting the Governor's vote, as the Senate will not organize if the Democrats are successful.

G. W. N. Pittman (Democrat), of Bartlett, will be elected President of the Senate, and W. N. Gore (Labor Reform), of Weare, Speaker of the House, and James P. Jackson, of Littleton, cierk. The headquarters of the Democracy is at the Eagle Hotel, and the Republican head-quarters at Rumford Hall; they present an active appearance, and their members express themselves confidently as to the result. Republican Representatives Scott, of Keene, and Johnson, of Pittsburg, are ill, and not able to be present. The Republican candidate for Speaker will probably be Colonel William D. Patton, of Kingston, with J. H. Fenton, Jr., Clerk. Well-informed politicians calculate on Wes-Well-informed politicians calculate on Weston's election as Governor by a close vote, say 5, and Democrats say they can elect him even if the House is organized by the Republicans. Republican members are not called upon to be present before this evening, but there is already larger relative representation of members elect present than has ever voted in the organization of the Legislature.

LUGAL INTELLIGENCE.

Prison Cases. Court of Quarter Sessions-Judge Allison, The trial of prison cases was begun to-day. Martin Bryan pleaded guilty to the charge of en-tering the residence of Dr. R. H. Kilne, with intent

Drew Sayers pleaded guilty to the charge of beat-ing his wife, and George Read pleaded guilty to the ame charge.
Benjamin Mansfield, colored, was convicted of Benjamin Mansfield, colored, was convicted of stealing and committing an assault and battery upon Policeman Gillespie. The evidence on the part of the prosecution was that on the 25th of May, about 4 o'clock in the morning, the officer found the prisoner, who was a porter at Shippen street market, with two sides of sole leather in his cart, and when the officer arrested him he resisted; and that during that night a store at Second and Shippen streets had been broken into and this very leather stolen.

eather stolen. The prisoner told a very consistent story in ex-planation of this, saying he had found the leather in the street, but the sworn statements of the wit-nesses against him and the energetic argument of the Assistant District Attorney were too much for his simple story, and the jury pronounced him guilty.

Peliceman William Baker was tried upon the colored. Mr. Bregy, representing the prosecution, called a number of witnesses to prove that while Congo was quietly driving his cart down Green sirect a man named Mule jamped into the vehicle and put a living snake on his face, and then, when condered by Congo to desigt he immed out. Sasing ordered by Congo to desist, he jumped out. Seeing the officer coming up he went to him, tapped him on the shoulder, and appeared to hold a private conversation with him, after which he returned to Congo sation with him, after which he returned to Congo and beat him.

The policeman then arrested Congo, but upon the remonstrance of the crowd let him go. Then he followed him to the wharf where he was employed, and for what he called impudence arrested him and took him before an alderman, where he preferred a charge of breach of the peace against him. Mr. Heverin, representing the defense, called witnesses to prove that, after the disturbance, the officer ordered Congo to take his cart off the erossing, and upon his refusing to do so arrested him.

Mr. Bregy, in summing up for the prosecution, met this point by saving that the officer charged Congo before the Alderman with a breach of the peace, and did not say a word about violation of the city ordinance, as he undoubtedly would have done had not this been an after-thought. The jury rendered a verdict of guilty.
